

CLAIMS

$$\text{Sub } A'$$

1. A method for the prediction and optimization of a communications system comprising the steps of:
inputting a plurality of channels;
predicting a performance of each channel using a plurality of parameters to characterize the performance of the channel; and optimizing the parameters of each channel according to a design criteria.

Child #2

09-10-2017